Youth of Honor Foundation - www.youthofhonor.org

As an IT Professional for over 19 years, Tom has taken on a wide variety of assignments that range from technical program writing, international program management to being a Chief of Staff for numerous Senior Executives. In every position he has held Tom has leveraged his strong communication and interpersonal skills to build a network of relationships. He realizes that by incorporating the thoughts and experiences of others, greater heights can be achieved.

From the inception of the Youth of Honor Foundation in 2006, Tom has passionately worked to not only create programs (Personal 'You-Turn' and Be A Giant) that positively uplift and inspire 'at risk' youth but has also spent numerous hours behind barbwire or in schools, teaching the programs. His hands-on style has received positive comments from the youth being served and administration alike.

Additionally, leveraging his technical background, Tom has been instrumental in establishing a web presence for the foundation while also directing the foundation's Youth of Honor (YOH) Cast video messaging campaign which enables youth from around the world to be uplifted by short messages of inspiration from some of today, and yesterday's, icons.

Besides directing the Youth of Honor programs, Tom is a freelance photographer, primarily focusing on action photography. Over the years he has worked with Tennis Channel, Inside Tennis Magazine, Real Fighter Magazine (MMA), Usher's New Look Foundation and many other organizations.

He is a graduate of Florida State University and currently resides in Lawrenceville, Georgia. Tom is married to his wife Sharon and is the proud father of two incredible daughters, AnnMarie and Emma.
